

Join Us on July 27th for the Official Unveiling of Redwood City's Draft New General Plan

Redwood City's City Council and Planning Commission will hold a Joint Study Session on July 27th to unveil and discuss a draft of the New General Plan.

- 6 pm: A special "open house" where you can enjoy light refreshments, browse informational displays, and informally talk with staff about the draft New General Plan.
- 7 pm: The official Study Session offers an overview presentation, discussion, and time for questions and answers.
- Purpose: The City Council, the Planning Commission, and community members will discuss and comment on the different sections or "Elements" of the draft New General Plan. Based on the discussion, the Council and Commission will give staff guidelines for the next steps in preparation of the draft Elements and Plan.
- This is not a final decision-making point; the draft Elements and Plan will come back to the Council and public for final review at a later date.

The draft Elements are based on a great deal of previous community discussion. This is an opportunity for another full public review and dialogue to ensure they fit with the community's vision for the future.

- WHEN: Monday, July 27th, 6 pm
- WHERE: City Council Chambers
City Hall, 1017 Middlefield Road

The Draft Elements and other updated information about this blueprint for the future are posted for public review on the City's New General Plan website, which is at www.redwoodcity.org/generalplan. More information is also available by calling 650-780-7234.

Please see the reverse side for a listing of the Elements to be included in Redwood City's New General Plan.

What is a General Plan? As the "blueprint for the future" of Redwood City, this document establishes policies, goals, and programs for the long-term physical development of our city. It reflects the community's values and guiding principles of today, and creates a vision for the future of Redwood City. The New General Plan consists of various topics or "Elements."

The New General Plan is being created right now, with the community's direct involvement – you are an important part of guiding our community's future!

Redwood City’s New General Plan will consist of five Chapters. The State mandated Elements as well as optional Elements will be grouped together in these Chapters as presented in the table below.

Note: Not all Elements/Chapters are posted on the website as of this notice, but will be provided as soon as they are available.

Redwood City’s New General Plan: Chapters and State-Mandated Elements

Redwood City General Plan Chapters/Sections	State Mandated Elements							Optional
	Land Use	Circulation	Housing	Open Space	Conservation	Safety	Noise
Chapter 1: Introduction
Chapter 2: Built Environment
Land Use and Urban Form	●
Circulation		●
Economic Development								●
Historic Resources								●
Infrastructure		●
Chapter 3: Housing
Housing			●
Chapter 4: Build Community
Gathering Places and Parks				●
Trails and Other Connections		●
Community & Recreational Services and Facilities				●				●
Lifelong Learning								●
Child Care								●
Culture and Arts								●
Governance								●
Chapter 5: Public Safety
Atmosphere and Climate					●
Hazards Management						●
Noise							●
Chapter 6: Natural Resources
Water Resources					●
Energy Conservation					●
Natural Habitat and Open Space				●	●
Urban Forest					●			●
Agricultural					●
Implementation Matrix
Glossary								