Making Great Places: Think Globally, Act Locally

Featuring former Mayor of Pasadena and prior City Manager of Azusa

Rick Cole

City Manager, City of Ventura, CA

For the first time in human history, more people live in cities and towns than in rural areas. The challenge for American cities is to forge a 21st Century model that draws on our best traditions and is sustainable on a global scale. This will require a pro-active role in planning and implementing a clear community vision - not reacting to developers. Drawing from his success in the "urban revival" of Pasadena, Rick Cole will share his experience leading community visioning, General Plans, form-based codes and aggressive public investment to achieve award-winning results in that city and also in Azusa and Ventura.

Wednesday, March 7, 2007

6:00 – 7:45pm

Doors open at 5:30pm
Coffee and no-host bar available

Please note: The Forum will be held on the first Wednesday of each month through May 2007.
