Great Cities, Great Streets: Insights Into Successful City Planning

Featuring the internationally recognized city planning expert

Allan Jacobs

Author of "Great Streets" and "The Boulevard Book", Professor Emeritus of City Planning, University of California, Berkeley, and former Director of Planning, City and County of San Francisco

The qualities of great streets and boulevards can be written into the framework of a city's planning policies to help strengthen the public realm - the streets, sidewalks, plazas and parks that define the character of great cities. Allen Jacobs will be sharing his insights for not only how to create great streets and boulevards - but how to create great cities.

Wednesday, October 5, 2005
6:00 — 7:45pm

Doors open at 5:30pm
Coffee and no-host bar available

Please note: "Great Streets" and "The Boulevard Book" will be available for purchase at the October Forum. The Forum will be held on the first Wednesday of each month through May 2006.
