Join us for an eye-opening presentation on

Envisioning Urbanism: Promoting Sustainable Communities Through Photo-Simulation

Featuring nationally recognized visual simulation expert

Steve Price

Principal, Urban Advantage, Berkeley, CA

Our society is on the verge of making vast investments in public works. Will we make wise choices? Before and after photo-simulation is a tool to help us discern the good, to ensure that development both produces jobs and builds toward a green future. Photo-simulation is a way of communicating with community members and decision-makers that appeals to their whole brain, both left and right hemispheres. Steve Price will introduce how it's done, when it's effective, and show real-world examples of its use.
